SMU School of Law

The Singapore Management University's new School of Law will welcome its first batch of law students in August 2007. The 4-year LLB programme aims to produce holistic graduates who understand law in its contextual environment and as it applies across borders. In the near term, we require faculty who can teach:

- Legal System, Legal Method & Analysis
- Legal Research & Writing
- Legal Theory & Philosophy
- Criminal Law
- Law of Torts
- Constitutional & Administrative Law
- Law of Property
- Ethics & Social Responsibility

The full list of courses taught is available at www.law.smu.edu.sg. Interactive seminar-style teaching is employed at SMU. The school currently has a collegial team of 16 full-time faculty.

Applications are invited for academic positions of assistant professor, associate professor and professor respectively at the law school. There are two categories of faculty – Standing Faculty (a tenured/tenure-track appointment, where sustained scholarly research is a requirement) and Practice Faculty (a non-tenured appointment requiring substantial practical expertise).

Candidates should have excellent undergraduate and postgraduate qualifications as well as a minimum of 3 years' relevant working experience. Applicants for tenured positions should have a proven record of high-quality research. Familiarity with the common law legal system is required, and knowledge of Singapore law is preferred.

To apply, please send a statement of your plans and goals, a full c.v. (including the name of three (3) referees) and sample publications (if any) to: lawcv@smu.edu.sg.
