

Your career Your path Your choice

Hays Legal is a leading specialist recruitment consultancy sourcing positions for Lawyers. We recruit Lawyers post-admission at all levels from Paralegals and first year Solicitors to Senior Partners, General Counsels and Compliance Officers. Our clients include blue chip corporates and financial institutions, top law firms and public sector bodies.

Driven by your objectives, we formulate and then project manage your job search. We'll provide you with practical consulting throughout the recruitment process to improve your prospects and present you with the best available opportunities that meet your specific needs. Please find here a selection of our current vacancies.

Energy Associate, 4-5 years PQE

Well-established international firm
Outstanding reputation in the energy sector
Circa S$150k and above

Our client is part of a genuinely international firm with some 900 Lawyers on three continents. The energy team specialises in providing advisory services on the full spectrum of legal issues including mergers and acquisitions, foreign investment, operation agreements, third party access, competition law, environmental law, build-own-operate energy projects, electricity and gas purchase contracts, agreements for transmission and coal and gas supply transportation, hedging and commodity marketing and other market issues.

You will need to have excellent academics, strong analytical and legal skills, flexibility in your thinking and excellent written and verbal communication skills. You will also need solid commercial knowledge and practice development skills and an ability to work independently in a foreign office environment.

Regional Legal Manager

Work for the best
Become immersed in a successful organisation
Circa S$120k and above

Our client is a hugely successful global FMCG company that holds a strong position in the FTSE 30 and is behind many market-leading household products. Based in Singapore, with a direct reporting line to the Senior VP Legal, this role has responsibility for supporting both the business and some global marketing teams. Your advice on a broad range of commercial legal issues, both for Singapore and regionally, will be integral to the businesses' on going success and development. This role demands a commercial approach and the ability to deliver solutions in a wide range of challenging situations.

You should have significant experience of advising in relation to commercial contracts and corporate work in particular. Whilst previous sector exposure is not a must, you should have gained good transferable experience of the above in an in-house environment. Ideally, you should have 3-6 years PQE with admission to the Singapore Bar.
